

HUNGARIAN JOKES

Translated by George Plohn (The guy at table 7 in the dining room)

How to be successful with women:

- To a not good-looking woman, say she is beautiful...
- To a beautiful woman, say she is smart...
- To a smart woman never lie...

The French philosopher Descartes famously said (1637): Coaito erao sum [Latin for "I think, therefore I am"], to which I could say: but if I am not thinking, I am even better...

Whoever says that one should not be upset because of a small matter, he or she was never annoyed by a mosquito in the bedroom...

An optimist sees a light at the end of a tunnel. The pessimist sees darkness at the end of that tunnel. A realist, however, sees the approaching train, while the train engineer sees three stupid people standing on the rails...

What kind of marital life you have if you two sleep in separate bedrooms? - asks her sister at her first visit.

- It's simple: my husband just whistles if he is in the mood...
- And what about when you are in the mood?
- Then I go over, open his door and ask: did you whistle, my dear...

I knew once an ugly looking woman, and when she sent me her picture by e-mail, it was stopped by my antivirus software...

A day has 24 hours; in a crate there are 24 beers... THIS CANNOT BE ONLY A COINCIDENCE!

I read the other day a book about levitation. I was unable to put it down until I finished it.

When somebody says to you "Good morning!" the correct reply should be "Prove it!"

Until now I was stupid, but I am taking now a 360 angle turn...

Baldness has a big advantage: one can hear the snowflakes falling on his own head...

A Scottish family – mother asking her husband:

- Archibald, our boy has in his mouth the same candy for two days, I start to worry.
- Fiona, don't worry about it, he should be thrifty when he grows up.
- Yes, but by now shouldn't we remove the wrapper from the candy...?

In Venice, a British businessman meets at the gondola station his former school mate, a Scot.

- Hey Alastair! How are you? What brings you here, and alone?
- Yea, I am here on my honey moon!
- And where is your wife?
- She remained at home in Scotland, b'cause she saw already Venice...

In some Scottish restaurants they heat the knives so you can't use too much butter!

Teacher to little Johnny:

- Can you tell me a migratory bird?
- Little Johnny: A swallow.
- Good, now a non-migratory bird.
- A dead swallow...

A regular patron at 8 o'clock in the morning in a bar

- A beer? Asks the barman
- Don't you think it's too early for that? Asks the patron
- For the beer? Asks the barman
- No, for such a stupid question!