

Ten sayings about anesthesia and anesthesiologists

By T

1. Anesthesiologists and gastroenterologists are closely related: both deal with gas passing.
2. A good surgeon deserves a good anesthesiologist; a bad surgeon ought to have an excellent one (reproduced from an unknown source).
3. What is a surgeon's nightmare? When the patient is half-awake and the anesthesiologist half-asleep.
4. You don't want to have an anesthesiologist boyfriend: you don't feel anything he does to you.
5. You wish to have a husband anesthesiologist. He respects you on Shabbat: put you asleep early in the evening and wakes you up late the next day in the morning.
6. What is an anesthesiologist? The best internist amongst the surgeons and the best surgeon amongst the internists.
7. A poor anesthesia mimics the colors of the Israeli flag: The patient is blue and the anesthesiologist is white (pale) – reproduced from an unknown source.
8. What is the blood-brain-barrier? The surgical drapes that separate the surgeon from the anesthesiologist (reproduced from an unknown source).
9. During the surgery, the anesthesiologist is positioned in a kind of "Cockpit" from where he controls the patient's vital signs. Whenever he thumps with his cock, the patient goes to the pit (hell).
10. What is an anesthesia-roulette? When you have to choose one out of five private anesthesiologists, you don't know who will be the one who goes to sleep during the operation.